The more years you smoke, the more you hurt your body. Scientists now know that your disease risk surges even higher after you have smoked for about 20 years. But research shows that if you quit by age 30, your health could become almost as good as a nonsmoker's. At any age, the sooner you quit, the sooner your body can begin to heal.

Can a smoker play the flute? Not for long, he can't. The amount of damage even a moderate amount of smoking can do will completely destroy the ability to play a wind instrument like the flute. Smoking ruins the ability of the air sacs in the lungs to deflate correctly. A smoker can take a big deep breath, but he can't blow it all out.
