our algebra is not higher-order in the traditional sense (there are not formal process variables of a different type from names) it has all the features of a higher-order process algebra. Thus, it turns out that there

Namespace logic: A logic for a reflective higher-order calculus

We present a case study of higher order algebraic methods applied to the specification of convolution as a second order transformation on streams. Two systolic synchronous concurrent algorithms (SCAs) for convolution are formally specified and verified using higher order equational logic. We then ...
